

| Question | Answer | Mark | Mark scheme                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | Additional guidance                                                                                                |
|----------|--------|------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1        | 56.4   | M1   | for a start to a method,eg $846 \div 15$ or $8.46 \div 0.15$ or $8.46 \div 3 \times 20$ or $282 \div 5$that leads to 5 as the first digitor for a complete method with no more than one arithmetic error | A start to a repeated subtraction method or a build-up method is acceptable if a correct first digit of 5 is found |
|          |        | A1   | for digits 564 identified                                                                                                                                                                                                       |                                                                                                                    |
|          |        | A1   | (ft) dep on M1 for correct placement of the decimal point into their final answer                                                                                                                                               | An answer of $56\frac{2}{5}$ gets 3 marks                                                                          |