

| Question | Answer           | Mark | Mark scheme                                                                                                                                         | Additional guidance                                              |
|----------|------------------|------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 10       | $\frac{25}{\pi}$ | P1   | for showing $\pi d = 10$ or $2\pi r = 10$ or $r = \frac{10}{2\pi}$ or $d = \frac{10}{\pi}$                                     |                                                                  |
|          |                  | P1   | (dep P1) for using $r = \frac{5}{\pi}$ or $r = \frac{10}{2\pi}$ or $d = \frac{10}{\pi}$ in $\pi r^2$ eg $\pi \times \left(\frac{10}{2\pi}\right)^2$ |                                                                  |
|          |                  | A1   | oe                                                                                                                                                  | Need not be simplified but needs to show a single value of $\pi$ |