

| Question | Answer               | Mark | Mark scheme                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         | Additional guidance                                                                                                                                         |
|----------|----------------------|------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 15       | $\frac{130}{400}$ oe | M1   | for a method to find the frequency (or area) of one relevant interval,eg $3 \times 10 (= 30)$ or $5 \times 20 (= 100)$ or $8 \times 15 (= 120)$or $10 \times 15 (= 150)$ or $5 \times 10 (= 50)$ or $8 \times 10 (= 80)$or, using $1 \text{ cm}^2 = 1 \text{ unit}$ , $3 \times 2 (= 6)$ or $5 \times 4 (= 20)$ or $8 \times 3 (= 24)$or $10 \times 3 (= 30)$ or $5 \times 2 (= 10)$ or $8 \times 2 (= 16)$ | Evidence for this mark may be seen on the diagramAccept equivalent methodsFor M marks condone use of 2.5 for fd of 3 and/or 4.5 for fd of 5 |
|          |                      | M1   | for a method to find the total frequency (or area),eg “30” + “100” + “120” + “150” (= 400)or “6” + “20” + “24” + “30” (= 80)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                                                                                                                             |
|          |                      | M1   | for a method to find the frequency (or area) between 20 g and 40 g,eg “50” + “80” (= 130) or “10” + “16” (= 26)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                             |                                                                                                                                                             |
|          |                      | A1   | for $\frac{130}{400}$ oe                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | Accept any equivalent fraction, decimal form, 0.32(5) or 0.33 or percentage form, 32.(5)% or 33%                                                            |